I was always here in the silence though the course may change sometimes this life can be very strange crazy mirrors everywhere that set the spirit free when he rides he's like the wind dying to be loved how glorious and delivering we could walk forever glad to be alive 'cause the livin' is free and easy and the grand facade so soon will burn it all requires so much imagination don't stay too long 'cause it makes me mad i'll try my hardest not to cry when it is time to say goodbye i feel your breath i look around but you are gone where did it lead? what is it all coming to? i know it's just a job you do a lot of life goes down let me steal this moment from you now there are times when all the world's asleep and he's crying with a loud voice dear diary i'm here to stay living one long sunrise racing around to come up behind you again to the corners of the sky one day i am going to grow wings climb down from the hilltop wild mountain thunder echoes my quest to slay the caboose and make the world just turn out right like i told you before the sun will lead us like the good old days in my new strange world
as free as a bird now long live rock
hit it
